An Exponent is a figure or letter written at the right and a little above a quantity to indicate the number of times the quantity is to be taken as a factor. For example, in c^4 the shows that c is to be taken 4 times as a factor, c is equivalent to $c \times c \times c \times c$. 13. When no exponent is written, the first power is understood; 6 is the same as 6^1 . b^8 is b to the second power or 6 square; it is equal to $b \times b$. b^6 is b to the third power or b cube; it is equal to $b \times b \times b$. b^4 is b to the fourth power and is equal to $b \times b \times b \times b$. The distinction between coefficient and exponent must be thoroughly understood. In the case of the coefficient, the coefficient shows how many times the quantity is taken to make a given sum. The exponent indicates how many times the quantity is to be taken to make a given product. Thus, $4a = a + a + a + a$. $a^4 = a \times a \times a \times a$. 14. Symbols of Relation are the signs which show equality and inequality. The sign $=$ is read equals. The expression $a = b$ means that the quantity represented by a is equal to the quantity represented by b. When two quantities are connected by the $=r$ sign, the expression is called an equation. The sign is read is greater than...
